The Out-Bid. Uron a precious shrine one day I placed a gay and sweet bouquet, The brightest flowers of my young thought Were with its finest perfumes wrought, And with a riban I bound, whose bue Emblemed a heart forever true.

Upon that shrine there also lay A gorgeous, many-hued bouquet, And every flower that told a thought Was with a golden thread in-wrought; Ol not so beauteous, to mine eye, As the love knot which mine did tie.

. I lingered what seemed ages there, In kope that, answering to my prayer, The cloud might ope, and show revealed The form of her to whom I kneeled; Then from the pure and jealous cloud A lily hand its lustre showed. And drew within the envious veil The gift where gold made yellow pale.

I left my flowers to wither there-That must they soon with my despair— No more the pathway to that shrine Shall know these wonted feet of mine I scorn my love's best gifts to bring For an unworthy bargaining.

The Amistad Case. The following Message was transmitted to Congress on Tuesday last by the President:

Washington, February 27, 1843. WASHINGTON, February 27, 1843.

To the House of Representatives:

I transmit to Congress sundry letters which have passed between the Department of State and the Chevalier d'Arguiz, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of Spain near the Government of the United States, on the subject of the schooner. "Amistad," since the last communication of papers connected with that case. This corresponders will show the separal grounds on which the Secondary of the Conference will show the separal grounds on which the Secondary of the Conference will show the separal grounds on which the Secondary of the Conference will show the separal grounds on which the Secondary of the Conference will show pendence will show the general grounds on which the Spa wish Minister exp elses of satisfaction with the decision of the Suplem: Court in that case, and the naswers which have been made to his complaints by the Department o

State
In laying these papers before Congress, I think it proper to observe that the allowance of salvage on the cargo does not appear to have been a subject of discussion in the Supreme Court. Salvage had been desied in the Court below, and from that part of the decree so appeal had been claimed.

The 9th article of the treaty between the U. States am Spain provides that "all ships and mirri andise of what nature scever, which shell be rescued out of the hands of any pira expressions on the high seas, shall be brough into some port of either State, a. I shall be delivered to the austody of the officers of that port, in order to be taken care of, and restored entire to the true proprietor as soon as due and sufficient proof shall be made concerning the Property thereof,"

The case of the "Amis ad," as was decided by the Court was not a case or piracy, and therefore not within the term of the treaty. Yet it was a case in which the authority of the master, officers and crew of the vessel had been divested by force, and in that condition the vessel, having been found on the coast, was brought into a port of the United states; and it may deserve consideration that the salvors to take the afficers and seamen of a public ship. It is left with Congress to consider, under these circumstances, whether, although in strictness salvage may have then lawfully due, it might not yet be whe to make provision to refund it, as a proof of the entire good faith of the Government, and of its disposition to fulfil air its treaty stip alations in their full extent, under a fair and liberal conulations, in their full extent, under a fair and liberal con-

FRENCH ORATORS .- After Thiers, the most powerful speaker in the French Chamber is, in our opinion, Duris. He effects by violence and energy what Thiers does by insinuation. Very coarse, with the voice, gesture, and aspect of a peasant no one can faire vibrer le fibre national, lik-Dapin. He seldom speaks; never unless when provoked or excited. And he is never either pro voked or excited except by the absurdities or extravagances of either extreme. When the priestly or the ultra-Tory party have gone too far in severity or ill-gulity or unconstitutionalism, and when the liberal opposition attack in vain on such a point, Dupin starts up to the aid of the latter, and gives court and minister so keen and frontcal s castigation, that the tenants of the ministerial benches shrink into them. When, on the other hand, the Left fondles some remarkable absurdity. end cries at the top of its lungs against some trifle. which it represents as the very destruction of alfreedom and of the French name, Dupin rises to chastise his liberal neighbors (for he sits near them), and to declare, that liberal as he thinkhimself, he has no idea of going the length of such absurdity as that. As a social man, Dupin is delightful amongst his legal comrades of the bar, ful-

Lamartine, however, had been a diplomatist, before he became a poet, and his notions of foreign policy are far less crude than those of his colleagues in general. Lamartine has the honor of having foreseen and foretold the treaty of July and the breach with England, full eighteen months before they took place. In a memorable speech he pointed out the quarrel into which both countries were blindly flinging themselves, and vainly begged of his countrymen to stop. The speech was then laughed at as the most absurd of prophecies. He had afterwards the greater honor of standing almost alone in his opposition to the fortification of Paris. MAUGUIN is as good an orator as any man car be who wants common sense, and another common quality generally cited with it. Tocqueville has utterly failed both as a speaker and politician .-SAUZET is whipped cream. VILLEMAIN is a remarkable and indeed the last surviving specimen, of the mode of thinking and speaking of the last dentury. His French is classic, his style epigrammatic, his tone irunical, and his arguments Voltairianism. Cousts is an awkward schoolboy, who has purloined some elequence and mysticism from German philosophers. But we have already come to the second-rate men, and may close the series of sketches into which we have digressed."

TRUE FEMALE NOBILITY -The woman, poor and ill-clad as she may be, who balances her income and expenditure-who toils and sweats in unrepining mood among her well-trained children, and presents them morning and evening, as offerings of love to her husband, in rosy health and cheerful cleanliness, is the most exalted of her sex. Before her shall the proudest dame bow her jewelled head, and the bliss of a happy heart dwells with her forever. If there is one prospect dearer than another to the soul of man-if there is one act more likely to bend the proud and inspire the broken-hearted-it is for the smiling wife to meet her husband at the door with his host of happy children. How it stirs up the tired blood of an exhausted man, when he hears the rush of many feet upon the staircase-when the crow and carol of their young voices mix in glad confusion-and the smallest mounts or sinks into his arms amidst a mirthful shout. Ged! it was a halo from every countenance that beamed around the group! There was joy and a blessing there.

Indeed, all who have ever tried the Bal-am prize it so highly that they will not be induced under any consideration to do without it. This Balsam has attracted the attention of men of science, and physicians and surgeons of the greatest scientific acquirements give it their unqualified approbation; while many of them in different sections of the United States now use it in their practice, and have authorized the publice jon of their certificates.

LETTER FROM DR. HEMINGWAY.

WHITNEY'S POINT, April 3, 1833.

Dear Sir:-Believing your Arabian Balsam to be one of the best family medicines in use, I state the following case; viz: Harry Green, of Triangle, Broome Co., about thirty years of age, during the summer of 1835 became afflicted with the Ague and Fever, which continued its ravages more than a year, and reduced him to a very delicate state of health. In April, 1836, it terminated in a suppurating tumor on the back, in the region of the kidneys; which, on being punctur, d. dischanged a large quantity of fend an healthy matter, and from that time it assumed a fistulous form, penetrating two or three inches into the flesh of the back. He tried a great variety of remedies, besides having the advice of the best physicians, without the least benefit tured Persons.—Persons afflicted with ruptures may rely upon the best instrumental aid the world affords, ou application at the office, No. 4 Vesey-street, or to either of the agents in the principal towns in the United States. Be careful to examine the back pad of Hull's trusses, to see if they are endorsed by Dr. Hull in writing. None are genuine, or to be relied upon as good, without his signature.

Many persons have undertaken to vend imitations of Hull's celebrated trusses, and thousands are imposed upon in consequence. These imitations cannot be relied upon; they are made by unskilful mechanics, and are no better than the ordinary trusses. the ordinary trusses.

Rooms have been fitted up at No. 4 Vesey-street, exclusively for ladies, having a separate entrance from the business department, where a female is in constant attendance to wait upon female patients. DR. RICHARDSON'S SHERRY WINE BITTERS.—The following are a few of the editorial notices:

From the Boston Morning Post.

Dr. Richardson's Sherry Wine Bitters are an excellent medicine. We have taken a bottle of them, and are about on years younger (in our feelings) than we were a month

From the Bunkerhill Acrora, Charlestown. Dr. Richardson's Bitters.—The Editor of the Post has been made to feel ten years younger by the use of one bottle of Dr. Richardson's Bitters. These Bitters are quite popular, and prove highly beneficial. The Editor of the Post is certainly good authority in such a case, and his personal experience should go far toward establishing the Doctor's Companied.

From the Essex Banner and Haverhill Advertiser. This is the season for the use of this valuable medicine.— It is the most safe and effectual family medicine, for diseases which its professes to cure, that his ever been discovered— It is composed of different roots and plants. We like the bitters because they are no quack, but prepared by a regu-lar practical physician, who says but very little about them himself, but leaves it for those who use them to make their own statements of their beneficial effects upon the system— We have just used the last of our bottle, which we purchased from one of his agents, whose name will be found on the outside of our paper. A month ago we could neither run, fight, sing, hallon, dance, or go to work, without feeling that our days were soon to be numbered among those that are not. But these Bitters have cured us, and we feel as it we had been bor- again, and can say, in our own peculiar style, "begone dull care," to suit ourselves; and th wish to feel so too most resort to Richardson's Bitters, or wish to feel so too must resort to Richardson's Bitters, or there is no help for them.

From the Lowell Patriot.

To the above we cheerfully add our own testimony of the efficacy of Richardson's Bitters. They are exceinent for all the purposes for which they are recommended.
